Dear Doctor

Enclosed in quadruplicate is an unsolicited proposal to provide for the development of techniques and a facility for screening chemicals for their potential property of inducing temporary behavioral changes.

We have proposed a three-year program with the first year being devoted primarily to the development of techniques using known compounds as models. The following two years would be devoted to screening compounds with some provision for constantly improving techniques. We realize that such a project can be funded only a year at a time.

While we cannot be certain, we believe that by use of our electronic data processing equipment we may be able to analyze the activity profile of screened compounds in order to provide a more reliable guide to further compound development.

If we may clarify or amplify any point in the proposal, please do not hesitate to let us know.

Sincerely yours,

Pharmacologist
